Excellence Restored

The 1998-1999 school year brought a new face and a new vision to the Paul M. Hebert Law Center. Chancellor John Costonis chose to make Baton Rouge his new home and the Law Center his next project.

In the last decade, the facility, the faculty, and the student body have suffered through a dark period of fiscal hardship. It is obvious that the potential to excel still exists at LSU. The students continue to maintain the highest bar passage rate in the state. The faculty continues to make contributions to the state's civil law tradition through the Louisiana Law Institute and Judicial College. However, without much needed financial support, the Law Center will certainly face a dismal future.

The Chancellor's goal is to reclaim the excellence the Law Center is known for in the legal community. With the help of alumni and an active Student Bar Association, the Chancellor was able to secure an unprecedented 19.3% increase in the Law Center's annual operating budget. Additionally, the Law Center will receive 9.6 million dollars in capital funds to renovate both the 1936 and 1970 law buildings.

The Chancellor has a detailed plan for spending the Law Center's newly acquired wealth. First, renovations to the buildings are scheduled to begin in 2000. Circulation is to be improved by connecting the first floor to Daggett Courtyard. The student lounge will be moved to the improved Courtyard area. Career Services will be moved to the present Chancellor's suite. The Chancellor's office will relocate to the first floor to improve accessibility. Various modifications are planned for the library, including wiring for laptops and other means of electronic communication.

Student welfare is a top priority in the Chancellor's plan. Scholarship funds will be increased in 1999-2000 by $291,000. Job placement opportunities will be enhanced by the addition of two career placement officers. The new funding will also allow the Law Center to reduce the number of students entering law school and hire ten new professors. This will enable more one-on-one education and lower the attrition rate.

The Chancellor's vision is a simple one -

"A law school that has done so well with so little can surely be restored to its former greatness if given adequate resources to do so."

ORGANIZATIONS

Student Bar Association

SBA President Ryan Gatti and his wife Susan inform junior Jeff Boudreaux about the Law Center's upcoming events.

The Student Bar Association is the liason between the student body and the administration. They plan social events such as Barrister's Ball and Race Judicata; publish the student directory and yearbook; appoint student representatives to faculty and ethics committees; and act as the voice of the student body on all critical matters involving students at the Law Center.

Junior Anne Burguieres sells T-shirts at a CLE.

Freshman Julie Eustis finishes the last leg of Race Judicata, a 5K run sponsored by SBA.

Freshman Ellen Romig posts the SBA announcements on the lobby bulletin board.

Juniors Elena Arcos and Jay Adair take a break at the refreshment table during Barristers at Bat, an SBA sponsored charity baseball tournament.

Environmental Law Club

Officers: Kelli Titus, Maryam Sabbaghian, Tara Kebodeaux, and Jessica Braun.

Members of the Environmental Law Club enlist new members on Club Day.

Environmental Moot Court Team

Members: Senior Vicki Miller, Junior Joe Stevenson, and Junior Olivia Tomlinson.

Junior Olivia Tomlinson was named Best Oralist as counsel for Friends of the Roaritan.

The Environmental Moot Court competition consists of two parts. First, team members prepare a written brief in the fall semester. The focus of the Law Center's team's brief was the position of Friends of Roaritan in their suit against XXX Corporation. The fictitious state of New Union intervened.

The second element of the competition was the oral argument which was held at Pace University in White Plains, NY. Here, the LSU team had to be prepared to argue all three positions. Seventy-five teams from around the country competed.

Labor and Employment Law Club

Officers: Melissa Boudreaux, Rebecca Lear and Reba Powers

The Civilian Society

Officers: Jerry Smith, Donnie Richard, Brad Gegenheimer, Dan Stigall, Tyler Long and Chris Criglow.

Black Law Student Association

BLSA members Devoyce Stubbs, Norma Bennett and Terry Sommers recruit new member Jamie Dodds at Club Day.

Terry Sommers served as BLSA president this year.

Norma Bennet and Tina Righteous plan the next BLSA event.

Legal Association of Women

Officers: Lara Namer, Danielle Brock and Jessica Guadalabene.

Professor Corcos serves as the LAW Advisor.

Tara Kebodeaux, Yvonne Krumins and Danielle Brock discuss legal issues facing women today.

Lisa Tobias and Margaret N'ganga enjoy food and conversation at an LAW unction.

Crystal Guillory, Dorie Abadie and Jessica Guadalabene visit at the BRAWA Cocktail Party.
